The venue

Timisoara

Timisoara is the third largest city in the country with a population of 319,279 inhabitants and is an important historical, economic, financial, cultural and scientific center with a large community of foreigners Germans, Italians, Hungarians, Serbs. Timisoara is considered the informal capital city of the historical region of Banat. The name of the city comes from River Timis which in the ancient times the Romans used to call either Tibiscus or Tibisis. The city is a candidate to become the 2021 European Capital of Culture.

Timisoara is also a charming place through its many parks, green spaces and public gardens that are studded with charming flowers and made people known it as “The City of Parks”. Furthermore due to its various architecture and Viennese Baroque influences, Timisoara is also called “Little Vienna”. Another extremely interesting aspect which I found fascinating (as this is about my own country) is that Timisoara was the first European city which had its streets lighted with electricity (12 November 1884). Although from a culturally point of view Timisoara has many options of entertainment, don't think there are not as many when it comes to having a good fun by enjoying going to restaurants, clubs and cafes.
